Here and There

-Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THE price of fame, gentlemen, is to be often quoted; and I the cost of being often quoted, my sires, is to be sometimes misquoted. That's how Roy Anderson felt today when he received a letter from a Mississippi gentleman regarding Hempstead county's world-famous watermelons.

Well, on August 2d I received your letter in which you stated that they did grow a watermelon as large as "two niggers," I am beginning to believe that this is true, because I read in the Commercial Appeal where they had grown a watermelon at Hope, Ark., that weighed two hundred and sixty pounds (Editor's note: Teh, tch-Mr. Middlebrooks, somebody has been lying about all of us).

That must have been some watermelon. Would you mind telling me the variety of this watermelon, had in Georgia that were so su-perior. Finally the Californian be-came vexed and he caught a go-you have wonderful peaches, bathing beaches and a stone mountain, but never have you seen a bed-bug as big as this one." With that he pulled the sheet back and

Tense Addis Ababa Awaits Long - Feared Air Attack

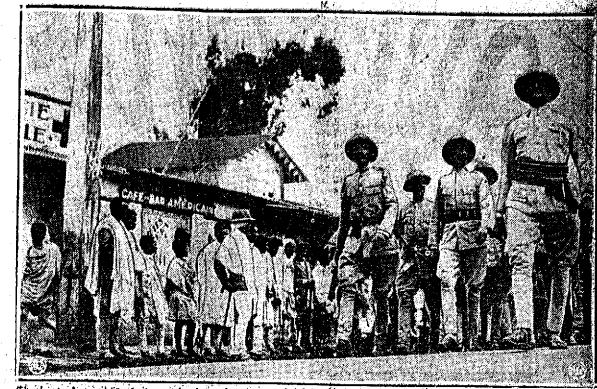

Torn up and rough even in peace times, this view of a a few bombs dropped from Italian planes might create.

The bush growing in the road at right is suggestive of the that an exploding bomb might raise, although the war shadows hadn't fallen when the picture was street in Addis Ababa gives a hint of the shambles that

The cathedral of St. George, outside which troops are shown on duty, is one of the Addis Ababa landmarks in danger of destruction should Italian aviators bomb the Ethiopian capital. The cathedral is the chief seat of the Coptic Church, the state denomination.

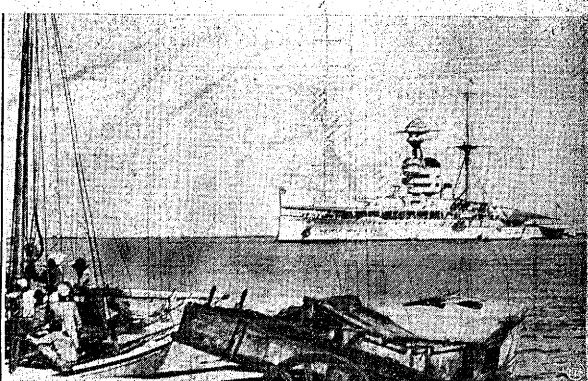

The best of marching feet sounds along the streets of Ad dis Ababa, where a bombing by Italian planes is momentarily feared. Such filmsy buildings as those in the background would offer the foreign and native population. little shelter from the shattering impact of high explosives carried by enemy bombers. Bomb-proof shelters

As war broke out on the Ethiopian horder, these Senegalese troops, pictured boarding the transport Porthos" at Marseille, were arriving at Difbouti to strengthen garrisons in French Somntland, near border of which at Mount Mussnit, the italian troops were reported to have first invaded Ethiopia a of militarism into neighboring countries. Egypt, with its vital relation to the Suez canni and the importance of the Nile's sources in Ethiopia, girds for any eventuality, holding extensive maneuvers near Cuiro. A soldier is shown above firing from sandbags while officers watch:

A watchful maritime sentinel, H. M. S. Resolution is shown in this newly arrived picture as she reached Port Said—gateway to the all-important Suez Canal—during Great Britain's ominous Mediterranean fleet movements.

To British battleships may fall the task of protecting the canal if France and Britain decide to close the waterway. in the future to Italy's Ethiopian-bound troop-ships.

before going into hiding, Empress Menen formed a first aid association in Addis Ababa to make bandages. The Empress (right) and Lady Barton, wife of the British Minister, are shown working side by side members of the court, Empress Menen is shown leaving Addis Ababa for a secret haven to insure safety from capture.

Faint-hearted soldiers are given short shrift in Ethiopia. The dangling bodies of these two deserters is typical of the grim justice meted out by army courts.

As Italian guns pounded at the border, Emperor Haile Selassic inspected the model prison at Addis Ababa, built to scotch charges of backwardness. Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, Italian minister, follows him.

Massed at both ends of the Suez Canal are powerful firltish and French fleets, available to enforce a blockade if it should be voted by the League of Nations. At top are British ships at Port Said; below, French destroyers.

Swift, modern, dangerous, the Italian cruiser Zara is one of the formidable weapons at Premier Mussolini's disposal in his efforts to keep the Sucz Canal open for communication with his armies in Africa

Leaving for the northern front, these trucks carry hastily trained first aid detachments and field hospital equipment to care for those wounded in the battles with invading Italian forces.

Seen from the air, the entrance to the Suez Canal looks like a dark geometric pattern against the drear Port Said region. Blockade of the canal by Britain and France is threatened.

Do Not Pay Cash

Warning from the CHIEF of POLICE

to the Citizens and Housewives of Hope

This Is a warning to beware of Strangers posing as solicitors, salesmen or inspectors, seeking admittance to your homes. It is given in the hopes of protecting the citizens of this community.

Strangers should not be admitted to your homes until their Credentials have been checked up and verified and that you are sure they are local people . . representatives of local business firms.

In many cases the person. calling at your home representing himself or herself as a solicitor, sales agent, meter reader or inspector is a thief, house prowler, or a "spotter" for such crooks . . . just getting the "lowdown" on the premises for future references.

Beware of the Crook who goes about renting rooms, or houses willing to tender you a check as the advance rental payment . . . this check is for more than the initial rent and the secures the difference in CASH . . . and that is the last you hear from him.

Do not pay cash in advance on an order as too often the customer never receives anything for his money.

Do not issue checks to a Stranger on an order as many times these checks have been "altered" and later cashed by an innocent party.

In case you are suspicious phone the Police at once ... de not delay as it will aid the police department in locating the peddler at once.
